Introduction from Cathryn Ross, Chief Executive

Water is not a dry issue.

The water sector in England and Wales has come a long way in the past 25 years. At privatisation, polluted beaches and rivers and neglected infrastructure meant we were seen as the ‘dirty man of Europe’.

The regulation of this sector was entrusted to the Water Services Regulation Authority (Ofwat) which has maintained a steady hand in driving and incentivising the sector to deliver and to improve. Over the period since privatisation, the water companies have invested more than £116 billion in maintaining and improving services for consumers and the environment. Today, for example, the amount of water lost through leaks is down by about a third since the mid-1990s. In addition, salmon have returned to the River Mersey, once considered one of the most polluted in Europe. All of this has been delivered efficiently too – a litre of tap water, supplied and taken away, costs less than half a penny.

But the world is changing. The water sector faces new problems and very different challenges. In the future, climate change may mean we get more droughts and more floods, making it harder to maintain resilient supplies. Our population is growing, putting more pressure on the water we use. Lifestyle changes have increased our appetite for water in our homes, our work places and our places of leisure. The changing social and economic landscape also means we need to reconsider how business operates and how customers are able to afford their water and sewerage bills.

Ofwat needs to be at forefront of determining and implementing a regulatory system that will protect customers’ interests, drive efficiencies and innovation, enable efficient companies to finance their functions and to ensure that the ‘promises of privatisation’ are delivered. We all need sustainable solutions to these problems.

To do this, Ofwat needs to be at the very top of its game. The senior associate will contribute to programme management reporting and finance business partnering. Thank you for your interest in joining Ofwat at what is a very exciting time for us. We look forward to receiving your application.

Cathryn Ross
Ofwat Chief Executive

About Ofwat and the role

Ofwat (the Water Services Regulation Authority) is the economic regulator of the water and wastewater sector in England and Wales. Our role is to help it build trust and confidence with customers, the environment and wider society. Our strategic priorities include:

- delivering the reforms provided for in the Water Act 2014 and help to ensure that they deliver real benefits for water customers and society. This includes putting in place the arrangements for the opening of the non-household retail market to competition in April 2017. It also includes supporting the development of water trading and abstraction reform. Doing these things will require further changes to the way we set prices in our 2019 review;
- maintaining the confidence of investors in the water sector and our regulation of it, though this period of change; and
- developing the means by which we monitor the sector's performance against our vision of trust and confidence, and receive assurance from the sector.
- The role requires an ability to interact with decision makers at all levels within Ofwat's programme structures and to critically evaluate and challenge the financial decision making process. The post-holder will be expected to analyse financial information and present financial reporting at internal delivery boards and may be expected to present the outcome of budget modelling work to our Senior Leadership Team.
- The ability to use Excel to a high standard and communicate analysis effectively are essential. Good hands on skills with other software packages would be desirable.
- The suitable candidate must be able to demonstrate flexibility and be comfortable operating in a "hands on" and "can do" way, covering all elements of the routine work of the Finance Hub, providing resilience and support to ensure that team responsibilities are completed to time against the backdrop of a small team.
- We expect to develop the Finance Business partnering roles within the existing team over the next 12-18 months and also need to build financial capability and awareness across the organisation.

Operations resource pool

There are also specialist and mandatory roles that support the organisation in its legislative standing and statutory duties, by the provision of specialist skills and knowledge in areas such as information governance, health & safety, employment law and purchasing.

Role Expectations

The role requires an ability to interact with decision makers at all levels within Ofwat's programme structures and to critically evaluate and challenge the financial decision making process. The post-holder will be expected to analyse financial information and present financial reporting at internal delivery boards, and may be expected to present the outcome of budget modelling work to our Senior Leadership Team.

The suitable candidate must be able to demonstrate flexibility and be comfortable operating in a "hands on" and "can do" way, covering all elements of the routine work of the Finance Hub, providing resilience and support to ensure that team responsibilities are completed to time against the backdrop of a small team.

We expect to develop the Finance Business partnering roles within the existing team over the next 12-18 months and also need to build financial capability and awareness across the organisation.

Ofwat meets the cost of the tax and National Insurance by grossing up your expenses and recovering the net amount through your monthly pay package. But the expenses are classed as taxable earnings, which could impact on any attachment of earnings – for example, student loan repayments, high income child benefit and state benefits.
