

Developer news.

23 September 2019

One week left to tell us your views.

Our consultation on changes to the way we charge for new connections closes on Monday 30 September, so there's just a week left in which to take part.

From 1 April 2020, we'll be implementing charging rules from our regulator Ofwat, which affect all water and wastewater companies. These mean that asset payments will disappear and the way we calculate and pay income offsets will change significantly.

We're hoping for as much feedback as possible to help shape our thinking. If you or your colleagues would like to give us your thoughts, just click on the button below. The consultation is being run independently, so any responses will be anonymised.

Take part in the consultation.
