

Dear Ofwat,

You must one of the most ineffective monitoring organisations in the country, which is saying something.

Water companies should be fined for every spillage, overflow of sewage incident that occurs, the fines should be huge and hopefully their financial model will be destroyed.

The privatisation of water companies has not worked, its a monopoly, there is no competition other than to be the worst water company.

£58 billion paid in dividends and interest over thirty years, at least half of which should have been invested in infrastructure, this is on your watch.

In summary there should be no increase in water charges, water companies should just invest more of their income and you should inforce it.

Regards

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]